After the Weekender it's time to groove as the Semaphore Music Festival presents 'River Songs,' set to ignite Hart's Mill Flour Shed on Labour Day Monday, October 2nd! Brace yourself for an unforgettable day of musical brilliance as we unleash a sensational line up of South Australian stars.

The doors swing open at 11am and the excitement kicks into high gear at 12 noon with a Welcome to Country followed by the captivating melodies of Scott Rathman Jr.

Then, prepare to be mesmerised by the incredible Ngarrindjeri/Gunditjmara powerhouse, Katie Aspel, fresh off her unforgettable Big Sound performance.

A.P. D'Antonio will take the stage next, cementing the tone for a day of pure musical magic, paving the way for outstanding First Nations talents like Nathan May, the captivating Glenn Skuthorpe, and the sensational Nancy Bates.

And that's not all! As the sun sets, prepare for an epic finale with Soul-Centric, featuring the extraordinary graduates of the Elder Conservatorium, Tyler Venter and Kate Lewis, joined by the award-winning legend himself, Dusty Cox, on the saxophone. It's going to be an unforgettable evening!

Don't miss this incredible celebration of music, culture, and talent at River Songs. Join us on Labour Day and be part of a musical journey like no other. Get your tickets now and let the rhythm of the river carry you away!
